God's Unconditional Love for Us: Christ Lifted Up!

Dear People of God, we celebrate the Fourth Sunday of Lent (Year B), also known as Laetare Sunday. Mother Church bids us to rejoice with her, reminding us that the Lenten Season is not a time of grief, but a joyful anticipation of the Easter Mystery. The readings invite us to reflect on God's love for us and our faith. This love is shown in His mercy that redeems and sanctifies us even when our sins condemn us. God never gives up on us; He always seeks to save us. God's love is expressed when Christ is lifted up so that everyone who believes in Him will be saved. The Crucifix is a perennial reminder of the love of God, Christ's love and human response with belief.

Our sins make us exiles of God's Kingdom. But just as God sent Cyrus, the King of Persia, to bring His people back from Babylon, so in His great love He sent His Son, Jesus Christ, to bring us back to the new Jerusalem "to live the good life as from the beginning He had meant us to live it". God's love is manifested in His generous mercy in giving up His only Son for our healing and redemption. When Israelites broke the covenant and chose darkness in preference to light, they were punished with exile, slavery, and the destruction of their Temple, the centre of national religious devotion. Cyrus of Persia, a rare and outstanding Old Testament example of divine election outside of Israel, is seen as God's chosen instrument of restoration. The Book of Chronicles tells Israel's history in terms of the people's covenant relationship with God. Their infidelities are seen as the cause of divine punishment in Israel's national disasters, and the repeal of their misfortunes is due to divine mercy. This is evident in their exceeding unfaithfulness and rebellion against the God who gave them life: they added infidelity upon infidelity; following and practising all the abominations of the nations; they polluted the house of the Lord which He had hallowed in Jerusalem; they mocked the messengers of God; despised God's Word and warnings; and scoffed at His prophets. Israel's story is the story of every generation and every life. Their attitudes lead them into exile, slavery. God did not withdraw His love for them: took the new initiative to rebuild and restore His people.

The love of God for His people goes beyond their sins and rebellion: God always seeks to bring healing, redemption and new life. For Israel, God chose the Persian King Cyrus as an agent of salvation. For the sake of His love and mercy for His people, not counting their sins against them, God uses new initiatives in His plan of salvation. Out of love, He pardons and raises up those who are unfaithful, those who love the darkness rather than the light. Similarly, St Paul talks in the second reading about divine favour in the faith of Christian believers that originates from the eternal election of God. This divine favour, the saving plan of God, is fulfilled in Christ Jesus. For Paul, when we were dead in our transgressions, God brought us to life with Christ. He knew this from experience. He persecuted the Church; arrested and imprisoned Christians. Then out of nowhere on the road to Damascus, the Risen Christ appeared to him. With that, his life was changed. Though he did nothing to deserve it, salvation was now his in Jesus Christ. He sees Christ as the way to salvation, forgiveness and a new life for humanity. Christ has become the bridge between our sins and God's healing. All is grace, and grace is the basis of new life in Christ.

In the Gospel, the "world", sometimes presented as enemy territory, is presented as the special focus of God's loving care and concern. Yet, it is clear that the world needs healing that only the Saviour's death can provide. The image of Jesus "lifted up" on the Cross is compared with the bronze serpent that was the conduit of divine healing in the wilderness, when Israelites were dying of the poisonous bite of the serpent. The episode, detailed in Nu 21:4-9, shows that the attack of the serpents was an act of divine judgment, which provoked repentance and God's response with healing. (The serpent on a staff is a symbol of the medical profession). St John also highlights the merciful kindness of God. One must look upon the Crucified Son with faith to receive the abundance promised. The poison of sin affects the world and us, and we cannot expel sin on our own. We need something powerful enough to pull it out of us, absorb it and eliminate it. Jesus says, "Just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up that whoever believes in Him may have eternal life". Jesus on the Cross, like that bronze serpent, brings healing to us. He draws out the venom of sin in our lives and replaces it with the grace of new life. This is only possible if we believe and choose to love and live in the light.

Lent is not a time to just sympathize with the Cross of Jesus but to embrace it: to begin once more to follow Jesus with our life. It is not the gazing but the faithful following that brings healing and new life. We can sing, meditate, lament the sufferings of Jesus, or celebrate the Resurrection of Jesus; we can do many beautiful things to honour Jesus. But are we ready to follow Jesus, to open our lives to His teaching, His truth, and His forgiveness, as it comes to us through His Church? Christians are urged to take the step of Repentance, to change how we live. We have a cure for the deep illness and rebellion of the soul that we call sin. Left to itself, sin is toxic: it kills us spiritually. The cure is the Cross of Jesus Christ, God's love for us. We could put that Cross on a wall; build a beautiful shrine around it; or wear it as jewellery. If we do only that, it will not do us much good, unless we embrace Jesus and follow His teaching in our life. As we reflect on the Crucifix, it shows us the horror of sin as well as the gift of God's love and the curing forgiveness that can be ours if we follow Jesus. Whatsoever the burdens in our soul, the one verse that can make a difference in our life is: "God so loved the world, that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him may not perish but may have eternal life". This is the perennial truth of what redemption is all about for our troubled world and for each of us whom God so loves and seeks to heal. Imitate God in His love for the world and us!

Dear students, as we reflect, pray, fast, and give during this Season of Lent, let us also embrace the Cross of Christ, God's love for us. God bless you. Pax!

Please be reminded to stay well, healthy, and safe. Be not afraid to attend Mass. Remember to observe the safety protocols. Your life is dear to us.

Have a Fruitful and Blessed Week!

God bless and keep you safe.

Our Lady of the Holy Rosary, Pray for Us.
