Called to the Mountaintop: Loyalty to the Giver!

Dear People of God, today we celebrate the Second Sunday of Lent, Year B. The readings for this Sunday invite us to climb with Abraham to Mount Moriah and with the Transfigured Christ to Mount Tabor. We reflect on Abraham's ultimate sacrifice of thanksgiving, the gift of his very son to God, and the disclosure of a suffering messiahship by Jesus. Abraham was prepared to give God his only-begotten son, Isaac, in sacrifice. God would do no less. "This is my Son, the Beloved", He says to us, "Listen to Him". Our God commands us to listen to Him and to His Beloved Son, Jesus Christ, whom God did not spare for our sake.

On this second Sunday of Lent, we are invited to climb three mountains with their protagonists: Abraham on Mount Moriah; the Redeemer Christ on Mount Calvary; and the Transfigured Christ on Mount Tabor. To climb a mountain is hard, but when we reach the top, we see things differently. The air is cleaner, the light is clearer; we come closer to God, and are changed by the effort. Mount Moriah calls us to serve the true God alone and to be loyal to the Giver of every good gift, especially in complex situations of life. Mount Calvary shows us Jesus Christ, the Way, the Truth, and the Life, our Saviour and Advocate, who indeed intercedes for us at the right hand of God. Mount Tabor calls us to listen and trust in the glory that awaits us. You may climb any one of these to discover that you have come closer to God and are changed deeply.

Although we know in advance that Abraham's call to sacrifice his beloved son Isaac is a test, the horror of the situation is made very real by the text. The fire, the knife, the wood, and the child's own innocent question conjure a vivid picture. The story in its historical context was to illustrate the substitution of an animal for the child, thus reinforcing the practice of the Israelite religion, which – in contrast to that of its neighbours – forbade human sacrifice. The account falls on God's first intervention, preventing Isaac's death. In its final redaction, the angel's second intervention, lauding Abraham's faith and renewing the covenant promises, gives the story its definitive form. Although Isaac was the child through whom God's promise of numerous descendants would be fulfilled, Abraham could not transfer his loyalty to the Giver (God) to the gift (Isaac). The fidelity and obedience that God required of Abraham were still immediate and absolute. We have Abraham's awesome trust and obedience to God, in a situation where God's true intentions seem fearfully obscure, and is gifted the blessings of the covenant, renewed because of Abraham's faith. God called Abraham up the Mount of Moriah to teach him, in a very dramatic way, that human sacrifice would never be part of fidelity to the God of life. At the top of the mountain Abraham finally and completely left all the old gods of the Chaldeans behind to serve the only true God alone. We are also called during Lent to abandon the worship of the gods of the culture of our time, to discover again our fidelity to the One True God. Abraham teaches us to listen to God always, to pledge and keep our loyalty to the Giver of gifts, and never to the gift.

The Gospel reading leads us to another mountaintop, Mount Tabor, where Jesus Transfigured before Peter, James, and John, revealing something stupendous to them. We can sometimes limit our vision and hope to this world as the apostles did, but Jesus took them up a high mountain. Once there, He started to change; first His clothing, then He Himself. Then Elijah and Moses appeared with Him, recalling the theophanies at Sinai and Horeb in Ex 24 and 1Kg 19. The disciples did not know what to say, they were taken by surprise. Then the cloud came and the voice, "This is my Beloved Son, Listen to Him". Suddenly everything was over just as suddenly as it began. Jesus was standing there just as they had seen Him before. But now, they knew what the future held, not only for Jesus but also for them. The scene gave the apostles a preview of the eventual glorification of Jesus but differs from the Resurrection appearances. Peter's offer to build three booths probably stems from a belief that the Messiah would come during the Feast of Tabernacles. The voice of God from the cloud (the Shekinah, or "shadow of the Almighty") claimed Jesus as the Son and commanded the disciples to listen to him. While this command refers to all of Jesus' teachings, His revelation of the necessity of suffering is close in view. Though the disciples did not fully understand it all, they looked at themselves and each other, they realised there was more to their future than they could imagine. They knew that one day they too would shine. This world is not all there is for us.

St Paul in the second reading used one of his favourite images, the Law Court, to remind us of God's acquittal of sinners. His rhetorical question shows it is unthinkable that the God who justifies us would condemn us. It is equally absurd to think that Christ, who is our advocate, would bring in a verdict against us. St Paul relates the justification of sinful humanity to God's overwhelming love shown in the sacrifice of His Son. If God is for us, who can be against us? If He did not spare His own Son but handed Him over for us all, how will He not give us everything else along with Him? This is the God we serve. He is the God who invites us, like Abraham, our father in faith, to obey and journey to the mount where He will provide for us and renew His love for us even in situations where His will and intention are fearfully obscure. He is the same God who revealed His Son as the Beloved, commanding us to listen to Him and to trust in the glory that awaits us. Jesus is the Way, the Truth, and the Life; we must listen to Him. Lent invites us to climb to the mountaintop where we can leave behind the gods of our past, embrace Christ as the only Saviour whom God did not spare, and trust the glory that will be ours in Christ. We can learn to thrust all our cares and worries upon the Lord, knowing that all things will work for our good and in accordance with His will.

We celebrate and wish all our brethren who celebrate birthdays, anniversaries, special occasions, and thanksgiving in February God's blessings and favours. Congratulations!

We pray and wish our dear students a fruitful and successful Mid-Semester Examinations. Be of good conduct. God is on your side; nothing can be against you. As we reflect, pray, fast, and give during this Season of Lent, let us learn to trust the Provident God. God bless you. Pax!

Please be reminded to stay well, healthy, and safe. Be not afraid to attend Mass. Remember to observe the safety protocols. Your life is dear to us.

Have a Fruitful and Blessed Week!

God bless and keep you safe.

Our Lady of the Holy Rosary, Pray for Us.
