Transforming Power of Christ: My Gift for the Common Good!

Dear people of God, we celebrate today the Second Sunday in Ordinary Time (C). This Sunday functions in the Liturgical Cycle as a bridge, linking what has gone before with what is to come. Today's Gospel completes a triad of Epiphany text (the revelation of Jesus to the Magi; at His Baptism; and now at Cana in the context of a Marriage Feast). Our readings remind us of God's transforming power, love, and concern for His people. We are equally reminded of Mary's role in the Christian life: her great love, and sensitivity to the needs of others, make her resolve never to be silent, but to intercede for us, her children, continuously. The Church rejoices in her Bridegroom who will cherish her, lavish upon her the many gifts of His Spirit, and transform her into a new creation as He transforms water into wine.

In the first reading the prophet Isaiah reassures the Jewish people at a time of national disillusionment and, for many, growing skepticism that Jerusalem, destroyed and abandoned, would ever regain its previous splendour. Using images evocative of Yahweh's long history of rescuing Israel from dire straits, the prophet renews God's promise to restore Jerusalem to a place of honour and prestige among the nations. The familiar description of Israel as Yahweh's spouse is used to reassure the people that God's love is faithful and unbroken. It speaks of God's power in Israel's life when they will be changed from being known as "forsaken, abandoned, or losers, failures" to being known as "chosen and blessed". Our future does not have to be the way things were in the past. In God we can be moved from failure to a new start; from experience of sin to a new birth to grace; from personal loss to a new chapter in our life; from being forsaken to being chosen and blessed; rising from grass to grace; from zero to hero; from nobody to somebody; from rags to riches. God can change our past into a different future. God can and wants to turn things around for you to reach your glorious destiny. Believe it!

St Paul in the second reading addresses the difficulties that had arisen in the community of Corinth over the exercise of charismatic gifts (charisms). Arrogance and competition over whose gifts were more important threatened to divide the community. Paul teaches that all of the gifts – wisdom, knowledge, teaching ability, strong faith, healing, miracles, prophecy, ability to distinguish between spirits, speaking in and interpretation of tongues, – come from the One Spirit and are intended to build up the Body of Christ in a climate of harmony and mutual acceptance. He does not question the reality of the miraculous gifts that were so manifest in the Corinthian community: it was a talented one. But he insists that all of these gifts were given "for the common good", rather than to inflate any individual. Are your discerned gifts, charism or talent building up or tearing apart your community? Put it/them at the service of your community or group: they are not for you! Charisms are given to us so that we might serve our brothers and sisters better. When used this way, our communities are filled with love, cheerfulness, and peace. It becomes the sign of the presence of the "wine" Jesus gives in the Gospel. In Christ, our talents become gifts to the Church, instruments of grace, vehicles of His truth, avenues of His love, and ways of building up the Church.

In the Gospel, Jesus comes to the aid of a couple: saving them from embarrassment and ridicule by a miracle (changing water into wine at a wedding). This miracle at Cana is described as the "first" of Jesus' "signs" which revealed His glory, making His disciples believe in Him. Jesus is present at the wedding with His disciples and mother who invite Him to help the newly-wed couple. The miracle is possible because the servants obeyed the command of Jesus. The miracle (sign) is thus about Jesus being revealed as the Messiah, the Son of God, the Holy One, in the midst of our ordinary human experience (at marriage), transforming our "secular" reality into the fine wine of God's grace. It speaks of the transforming power of Christ not only over water but over human lives. John rightly calls this miracle a "sign" because it points beyond itself to what Jesus does among us now: He changes the ordinary things of our life into places of extraordinary grace. Jesus knew that His time had not yet come but He stepped up to save the wedding family from impending embarrassment. Jesus cares for us and takes care of our needs both great and small. He uses the stuff of everyday life to accomplish the extraordinary. How many times do we run out of wine – the wine of joy, peace, and security – and life leaves us empty? But we have Jesus always at our side who can turn our sadness into gladness, our frowns into smiles, and our whimpers of fear into songs of hope. He will do everything for us, provided we follow the advice of Mary: "Do whatever He tells you".

This first sign performed by Jesus is very important to us at the beginning of the Ordinary Time and He does it through the intercession of His Mother. We are thus invited to observe not just the power of God but the efficacy of Mary's intercession and her sensitivity to the needs of others. She appropriates the opening words of the first reading by resolving not to be silent for our sake. It encourages us to trust in her and imitate her excellence. She knows her gifts and puts them at the service of others. May we also desire the gifts of helping others, intercession, and sensitivity to the needs of others. Christ still changes water into wine among us every day, our past into a different future, our talents into gifts to the Church and small places like Cana into places of "gallons of grace".

We say Welcome to our Freshers, encouraging them to make the Chaplaincy environment an essential part of their life and stay on Campus and its environs. Take advantage of every programme you are offered: it will surely lead you to your glorious destiny. To our dear Continuing Students, we say Welcome to those who are in and pray Journey Mercies for those yet to arrive. At Cana in Galilee, Jesus performed the first of His signs, revealing His glory to His disciples, and later to all nations. Mary's role in this miracle invites you and me to make her our mother so as to enjoy her powerful intercession. Christ has revealed as well the manifestation of the Spirit who distributes different gifts as He chooses. Know your gift, talent and charism, and serve others better. May God's Grace be with us throughout this Semester.

Please remember to stay well, healthy, and safe. Do not be afraid to attend Mass. Observe the safety protocols. Your life is dear to us.

Have a Blessed and Fruitful Week.

God bless and keep you safe.

Our Lady of the Holy Rosary, Pray for Us.
